This record will need to be expired by updating the expiry date, and a new PAYG Payee Withholding will need to be created using either the correct TFN OR an approved alternative value by the ATO (see figure 4)
5. If any changes are made, select Save to ensure all updates are saved. (See Figure 4)

Review & Update Payee Deductions

To review and update Child Support Deduction records, follow the steps below:

1. Click on the App Launcher icon. (See Figure 16)
2. Go to the Payee Deduction Records object by using the Search function. (See Figure 17)
3. Select the List View STP2 Child Support. (See Figure 18)

Figure 16

Child Support Payee Deductions will only appear in the List View if the related Pay Codes have been updated with the relevant STP Deduction Type(s) for Child Support. If they are not appearing, please review your Deduction Pay Codes again.

4. Users are required to review the listed Payee Deductions for those that relate to Child Support Deductions and determine if the current Pay Code listed relates to a Child Support Garnishee or a Child Support Deduction. Users also need to determine which Pay Code should be applied to each Child Support Payee Deduction Record.
5. If the Payee Deduction currently has the incorrect Pay Code applied, this record will need to have an Expiry Date entered, and the new Payee Deduction set up with an Effective Date the next day, ensuring the correct Child Support Pay Code is applied. For details on how to set up the new Payee Deduction, please refer to the Create a Payee Deduction - General QRG.

The request received from the Child Support Agency should detail if it's a Child Support Garnishee (Section 72A) or if it's a Child Support Deduction (Section 45). If you don't have these specific details, you will need to contact the Child Support Agency to request they be provided to you.

Users will need to confirm if they have the two Pay Codes created, one for Child Support Garnishees and another for Child Support Deductions. If you don't currently have two separate Pay Codes set up, Users will need to set these up prior to continuing.

Pay Codes on Wrong Record Types

If upon reviewing your Pay Codes it has been identified that the Pay Code was originally set up using the incorrect Record Type (i.e. Allowances set up as Expenses or Payment record types), if a new Pay Code is created on the correct record type which is available to be used now, the previous Pay Transactions processed for the current 2022/2023 Financial Year will need to be reversed out against the old pay code and processed against the new Pay Code.

If you require some guidance on how to do this please contact your support team.

Field Descriptions

Country of Visa/Work is the home country for Working Holiday Makers and Inbound Assignees to Australia, or, the country of work for a Foreign Employment Income payee.
